

Totnamon

Thursday 4th June 2020

My plant is called the Totnamon, it is an ancient, mythical plant that was around in the dinosaur ages, through to now.

The appearance of the Totnamon is a pinky, purple colour stretching throughout it, with a huge pinky, purple flower at the top for its head, in the insides of the flower is yellow walls down the tube, the tube is a long windy part of this plant which leads all the way down to the roots and is attached the flower. This fascinating plant can grow up to 17m high and can grow to its smallest at 0.1 m. a staggering

The Totnamon, the hallucinatory plant is found to grow at the foot of the oldest trees in the wood and can attach itself like ivy to the bark. However, the Totnamon can be found not just on ancient trees but any other living plant that has been around for centuries. This colossal plant's organ is only found on one island in the entire world, called the mekhanstare island, found deep into the Persian gulf sea which is the hottest sea in the world reaching 90° on the surface of the water in summer.

The Totnamon has many mind-blowing features to it, one of its
